Dear Mr. Natali:

Thank you so much for taking time out of your busy schedule to come talk to our Personal Finance class. I really appreciated you coming and teaching us about how to work with our finances and how we can save to have a secure future. I learned a lot about finances and what you should and should not do.

There were a few points that really stood out from your presentation. First was about our financial choices and that they have consequences. I really liked how you told us to never be afraid to say "I don't know, let me get back to you". I say "I don't know" a lot and I always feel like that isn't so great, but now I know that it's ok. I also liked how you said that the best opportunity in our lives is now. That is really good to know because it makes you want to make something of yourself and do something with your life now rather than later. Also, you said "knowledge is power" a lot during your presentation, and I haven't forgotten it since!

I really enjoyed your book The Missing Semester. There are so many great financial tips in it! I marked the book up with all of the useful information I'm going to use. I told my mom about your book too and she is reading it now and loves it!

I'm thrilled to be a part of the panel discussion on April 11th and I can't wait to hear what the other panelists have to say about finances.

Sincerely,

Gina Santoriello
